WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 30, 1857.

THE INDIAN MUTINY .- The secret spring of that strange revolt which, one fine morning in last May, broke out at Barrackpoor, in Bengal, and all but similutaneously at Meerut and Delhi, in distant quarters of the same Province, and which, as our readers know, has since extended to nearly the whole of the native army of that chief center and seat of the British empire in India, is still in some degree a conted point, and will probably long remain one. It certainly is a point of no slight consequence.

The controversy, however, relates, after all, to the comparative efficiency of several undisputed agencies rather than to the existence of the agencies themselves. The question, it must be confessed, is not respecting what produced the revolt so much as what part a variety of unquestionable causes respectively bore in the work. The inquiry, no doubt, is thus divested of much of its interest, and of no small degree of its importance. It is not denied, in general, that the Government of India has always been practically irresponsible, that its policy and conduct have not invariably been what they should be, that its servants, civil and military, have committed many outrages, and some great and thrilling atrocities, and that, in particular, the officers of the Sepoy regiments have of late years been singularly fruitful in flagrant sins both of omission and commission. And, furthermore, since the proclamation issued from the head-quarters of the mutineers at Delhi, it is, we believe, universally conceded that the proper effect of these repeated delinquincies and enormities has ripened in the bosom of the Moliamma den rather than in that of the Hindoo section of the population of India. In other words, it appears to be settled among intelligent people that, while undoubtedly begotten of misrule, the controlling spirit of the revolt is Mohammaden, and that the Hindoos so far as they are implicated in it, are simply the does and tools of the crafty followers of the Great Whether, however, one species of misrule or another has been more efficient in begetting the revolt is a matter of far less present interest than the means of effectually suppressing it. The first and capital necessity is that of vindicating the ritish supremacy in the revolted districts. This is e obvious dictate of common prudence and of mmon sense, and it is not surprising that the British gov ernment and public have from the begining fully re cognized its argency. It is only natural that this point should now absorb almost the undivided at tention of the press and Ministry of England.

Neither, we perceive, appear to entertain the slightest doubt in relation to it. Nor should they, in our judgment. We think it susceptible of mor al demonstration that the troops now on the road to India will make short and decisive work of the mutiny when they get there. Any other result, indeed, would violate all rational probability. The native army in Bengal, to which the mutiny is confined, consists of some one hundred and fifty thou sand men, the larger number of whom have been disbanded, and are scattered throughout the Presidency and its dependencies in a state of utter disorder. To oppose this army of mutineers and vagabonds England will have, within less than a month from to-day, a force of at least forty thousand Eurepean troops, aside from the few native regiments that are still true to their colors, and exclusive of the regular armies in Bombay and Madras, which, it is fair to presume, will be kept where they are to guard against possible local emergencies. Assuming that one European soldier is equal to five Sepoys, a very moderate assumption, the certainty decisiveness of the triumph of the English is ablished beyond a reasonable doubt. But, in fact, European is equal to at least ten natives. The lents of the present revolt as well as the whole nistory of British India show this. At Plassey, where Clive won the Empire which his successors have now to preserve, one Englishman proved himself an overmatch for more than fifty natives, two-third's of that young conqueror's little army of three thousand being natives, while the opposing hosts were sixty Fair. He is now in this city en route for Henderson. rather think that it has been revolting from the first.

thousand strong. And it is but yesterday, that the gallant Havelock, with two thousand men, routed the infamous Nena Sahib at the head of his thirty thou; sand miscreants, and that the garrison of Agra repulsed with equal gallantry a besieging force of may enter upon their work at the earliest possible to do with the inauguration of the present "crisis," the world at large, neither humanity nor civilization, ean, in the strictest and most pitiless construction of the law of retribution, demand its longer continuance. Its moral is already stamped upon the rulers of India in ineffaceable characters

Undoubtedly the world, if not their own consciences, will hold them to a strict responsibility for the manner in which they improve it. And, as they must vividly realize, the future, that inexorable responsibility equally rigorous. Their task is a most critical one, and it is evidently not half over. It has scarcely begun. After the revolt is quelled, and we trust sincerely that it will be quelled without any manifestation of that spirit of vengeance which sullies and dishonors the columns of the London press, after the sovereignty of British sway is justified, and the last trace of insubordination has vanished before the flushed majesty of order, then the real work of the Government will begin. The inquiry to which we first adverted will then assume the precedency it does not at the moment deserve, and the entire question of the British rule in India will come up for investigation and reform. Then, we trust, will commence that searching self-scrutiny and purgation so eloquently urged by Burke in his speech on the trial of Warren Hastings. "My Lords," said the great orator, "to obtain empire i common; to govern it well has been rare in leed To chastise the guilt of those who have been instruments of imperial sway over other nations, by the high superintending justice of the sovereign State, has not many striking examples among any people. Hitherto we have not furnished our contingent to with the herd of conquerors. Our dominion has been a vulgar thing. But we begin to emerge; and and I hope that a severe inspection of ourselves, a exorbitances of our own power is a glory reserved to this time, to this nation, and to this august tribunal." Burke was mistaken; but, in a spirit of generous friendship for Old England, let us Lope that the glory which his time rejected has been reserved

(For the Louisville Bulletia.) Ah, yes! he has my hand, but lu his soul There is no echo to the burning love Which with the might of ocean billows roll Around me, as the wild winds chase the dove,

Through many a weary year its power has swept Like monutain torrents through this soul of mine; But when I deemed it calmost-thought it slept, It ever wakened at one touch of thine.

And yet to me thou wast as some bright star Too high to beam upon a wayside flower: I gazed on thee and worshipped from afar. But never dreamed that I should see this hour.

Oh! thou who'st poured upon me thy high love, I throw my heart in thanks down at thy feet! Thou hast a glorious tissue round me wove Through which life's bitterness will all seem sweet.

And this deep fountain, which has ever yearned To break its fetters, now alone is thine. Each wild, unattered feeling which has burned So deeply here is offered at thy shrine

And canst thou take this passionate offering, liigh, earnest love, he uever could return, And yet implant within this soul no sting Which would through lonely years forever burn?

Ah, ves! thy soul through yonder starry sphere Oft eagle like sweeps by the gate of heaven. Could such a spirit cause one willing tear?

That were a crime which could not be forgiver! ROPE RAFTS .- The recurrence of a frightful ma rine disaster, such as the wreck of the steamer Central America, always brings forward valuable suggestions for providing against the loss of life in sudden emergencies. Life-boats and life-preservers do not furnish the proper remedy. The former are either swamped or dashed to pieces, while the latter, unless made of cork, are liable to be torn or punctured and thus rendered worse than useless, in fact a superadded weight for the drowning victim to carry. Rafts are sometimes constructed, but, from necessary haste, they are frail and insecure, while a plank, the last desperate resort for "the bold swimmer in his agony," is too often only a terrible prolongation of the certain doom. On our large rivers emergencies sometimes arise, either from fire or snagging, the dangers of which a little prident forethought might diminish if not entirely avert. Of the many recent suggestions submitted to publie consideration one of the most valuable, as it appears to us, is the construction of rafts of rope netting, supported all around by corks, and they are peculiarly applicable to our inland navigation. These rafts might be made of any convenient size from tarred rope and rendered buoyant by cork along the sides and at intervals throughout the entire network. They could not be broken and may be grasped at any part and the hold easily retained, Women and children especially would find their benefits, while they would be always ready and occupy but little space in stowage, from their flexibility. The idea is certainly worthy of attention, and we cannot imagine any objection to the practical working of these rope rafts, which seem to combine advantages superior to any other means of safety yet originated. Some of our enteprising steamboat captains might experiment as to their value, and we shall be most happy to lay the result of their investigations before the public.

THE PANIC AND THE CROPS .- One of the most | singular and mexpected events of recent date is the pressure in the money market in the face of the fact that the most abundant harvest ever gathered in this country is now ready for market, and the ailmore than ten times their number. Nothing, we ditional fact that the amount of money in the counconceive, is clearer than the perfect ability of the try employed in husiness was probably never great-steamer. It is settled, therefore, that all the insurtroops that will soon be at the seat of the revolt to er. The disastrous failure of the Ohio Life Iusursuppress it promptly and effectively. That they ance and Trust Company has doubtless had much noment is our most fervent wish. The mutiny has but that alone could have produced no such results lasted long enough for the lesson it is adapted to as are now being experienced in our commercial tesch. Neither the welfare of the Ilindoos nor of cities. For months past the reflecting part of the country have watched with anxiety the constant drain of eapital toward the Northwest, whither it by investments in lands or on "secure" loans at exhorbitant rates of interest.

From every part of the country the surplus capital has been sent forward. Parties who visited this inferred from the fact that they never insured her for El Dorado became seized with the spirit of speculation and invested their own pile, and wrote back to their friends accounts of fabulous profits to be made reckoner of all political accounts, will hold them to Instanter by the purchase of corner lots, of "farms of positive evidence of an opposite tenor, ought to adjoining the city." These letters, coming as they did, from parties known at home as eool, cantious men, induced the investment of all spare funds, or drew them into the vortex, if not to invest at least to pinwall and back, and have carried an aggregate of loan at from 30 to 50 Pct. Pannum. Prudent men at a distance from the fascinating influence of the land fever foresaw that a collapse would follow such an inflation, and that lands, though of good quality, could not be worth more than those of the same quality in more accessible locations-hence, while many thought the purchase of wild lands at high prices impolitic, they nevertheless were willing to loan their money to those who thought differently, on the common security of that section, viz: Bond and mortgage, with the power of attorney to sell. This form of security was deemed so satisfactory that large sums went forward to meet the demand. It remains to be seen how far the lender will be indenmified when these securities are sold.

"This speculating mania, and the immense investments in railroad enterprizes in the Northwest, followed by the withholding from market the great staples of the West, upon which are placed our chief reliance for bringing specie into the country from the records of honor. We have been confounded abroad, may be set down as the chief causes of the existing pressure.

The best means of arresting the continuation of the crisis should be considered, and the first and purification of our own offenses, a lustration of the most important is the restoration of confidence and mutual forbearance among merchants.

> The farmers have it in their power to curtail the evil more promptly and effectually than any other class of men, and their own interests fortunately can be subserved while they apply the remedy.

It is well known that the crops of all kinds are unusually abundant and fine, both in this country and Europe. This fact clearly indicates that a considerable decline in prices must be submitted to. The contrast between the famine prices of last year and the superabundance of the present is so great that the majority of the farmers are anwilling to submit to it. They are therefore withholding their produce from the market for a higher price. Hence, as yet, no great Lenefit has been experienced to the country from the abundant yield. The money panie must affect more or less the price of produce, and instead of improving it is likely to depreciate in price, in proportion to the scarcity of moncy required to move it to the seaboard. Thus the farmers retain their grain which should be converted into money to pay their bills, and the country merchants are thus deprived of the money required and expected to settle with the wholesale dealers in the

The payment of these little accounts is the only permanent means of relief, because, in the aggregate, they amount to nearly the whole capital of the country. Every payment is but furnishing the ther payments, and the riches drawn from the soil are the groundwork of a system of payments reaching from the small country store to the large importer of the seahoard cities. If any farmer doubts whether it is his interest to sell his grain at the present low prices, let him examine the statistics of the present season's products and his mind will be satisfied on this point. Our European advices show that if our surplus is taken there it will be at low figures compared with former years. If farmers promptly sell their grain and allow it to go forward, a considerable portion will be taken for export early enough in the season to meet obligations incurred, for exeessive importations already made. If they hold back, they are withholding the means for such payments to their own injury, because the accumulation of the surplus at the different interior depots must materially depress prices, and exports will be made later and at greater disadvantage. Their own debts and those of their creditors will remain unpaid, and the present state of financial embarrassment will remain long enough to affeet the stability of the whole mercantile community. We have always upheld the farmer in his efforts to obtain the highest prices for his produce. We have no sympathy with the heartless speculator who accumulates his uncertain gains out of the "margin" that should go into the producers' pockets, but we think the present state of affairs demands that farmers should provide themselves promptly with the means of paying their debts by selling their crops as early as they can prepare them for the market, even at prices which, compared with those of former years, seem low, rather than withhold for an advance, which in the nature of things is, to say the least, improbable.

The owners of the Central America publish a let-

The reasons were simply that was drawn by the promise of immense profits, either Mr. Law ceased to be the owner of the vessel at that time, and it was not deemed appropriate for her to bear his name any longer. That they considered the skip perfectly staunch and sea-worthy is fairly to be a single dollar; and, as we have already stated, the testimony of Capt. Badger to the same effect, under all the circumstances of the case, and in the absence be held conclusive. It is only just to the company to add that while their vessels have made three hundred and seventy five voyages from New York to Asnot less than 187,500 passengers, this is the first accident attended with loss of life which has ever befallen them.

Appellant commenced an action against the appellees, set int forth in his petition the following facts:

1. That he was owner of a certain tract of land in the county of Kenton.

2. That on the —day of ——, 18—, he sold to appellees the right of way for their railway, which was to be —f. et wide, being the distance ordinarily required for a railroad track, which track said railroad company made, dug, and occupied in so cardiess and negligent a manner by digging a deep ditchifer said track to the depth of 30 feet through loose, slipping earth, and the leaving of the said banks of said ditch without side walks or other protection to Kept the banks tron sliding—such walls as are necessary for the protection of platuriff's property, to keep it from sliding.

pellees have often promised to build a wait to protect his property, but have failed to comply with their promise. The appellees denurred to the petition. The demurrer was sustained. The appellant hen offered to file an amended petition, which the court refused. Appellant saying nothing further, indement was rendered in favor of appellees, from which appellant has prosecuted this appeal. The amended petition sels forth that the aspedices had not properly sloped the sides of the dich, but had carelessly and negligently left them nearly perpendicular, by reason of which, the sides caved in and slid down, taking with them the kurrounding soil and undermining his dwelling. "If the detendant had properly sloped the sides and such as oil the damage would not have been done to his property."

Judge Stites delivered the opinion of the court.

Hela—As the appellant had parted with the right of way he must have contemplated and assented to such a use of the way as would render it practicable for the purpos tor which it was intended. It does not appear from an allegation in the petition that the railroad company used o appropriated the way to any purpose not contemplated by the parties, nor that the company in using the way for th

walls were erected for the protection of the applicant special perity, perity, and the failure to erect such walk is the negligance and carclessness complained of in the original petition. Now although the company were bound, in the use of the right of way, to observe proper care and precaution so as to avoid unnecessary injury to plaintiff sproperty, resulting now and the protection of the adjoining property, resulting from a proper and reasonable use of the way for the railroad, although such consequences would be injurious, and inevitably so, to the plaintiff. It is for injury resulting to a man from the careless and negligent use by another of his property, that the law affords redress to the former; the latter is not responsible for the reasonable use of his own property, although such use may result in damage to his neighbor.

It is obvious from the petition here that the plaintiff knew to what use they way would be applied. The presumption it is that he estimated the damage that would necessarily result from the use of the way for the railroad track. The complaint is, not that it was not need for that purpose, or for a different one, but that the company failed to protect him by walk or otherwise from the failing in of his adjoining land. If the plaintiff desired to be protected from the law of the adjoining land, he should have stipulated for the erection of such walks. He parted with the right of way without such slipulation, and the company then acquired the right to use the way for the purpose designed. It was not then the duty to protect the plaintiff against consequences resulting inevitably and necessarily from such use, or such as might have been reasonably foreseen. All the law required of them was to observe that care and precantion in the nee of the way hat would prevent unnecessary illury to the adjoining property. If the linjury complained of was not the result of carelessness or negligence in the use of the way, but if the alleged failure to protect the plaintiff siponers. The demurrer to t

IMPORTANT RAILEOAD CASE. - We give this morning a very important railroad case which has just been decided by the Conrt of Appeals. IMPORTANT TO STEADMONT -PILOIS. - A few ceks since we stated that the St. Louis' and New rleans pilots had passed a resolution not to engage n that service for less than $500 per month. This action being contrary to law and the instructions of the Secretary of the Treasury, Davis Embree, the supervising inspector, summoned Wm. P. Gordon, Thomas R. Lowry, P. B. Dixen, Geo. Vanhouten, Russell Delaney, John A. Stevenson, and others, to appear before him to answer the charge of joining in a combination with others, by virtue of their licenses, to extort exorbitant compensation for their ervices, &c. The parties appeared before the inpreter, and day after day was occupied in hearing he evidence. During the progress of the ease, an athdavit was presented from J. C. Delaney, Jas. H. Townsend, Thomas R. Lowry, E. P. King, John A. Stevenson, John Ziegler, J. D. Davis, A. R. Harris, W. T. Henley, and S. P. Wiley, setting forth that they had a meeting subsequent to the one at which the resolution to increase wages was adopted, and had reseinded the said resolution, and was now of no binding effect upon them as filots or citizens. The case of Delancy was taken under advisement, but the ease of Lowry, Dixon, Gorden, Vanhouten, and Ely, were decided as follows. The inspector ecommences by saying:

The important questions in this case arc:
1st. As to the right of calling these parties to account beschit of appeal.

3d. That there is no provision in the law of 1852 specially robiding the combination charged.

4th. By their plea of not guilty, they deny the whole

if the charge be true, yet there was no wrong done, charge.

5th. if the charge be true, yet there was no wrong done, it was only o proposed or threatened injury.

Mr. Embree lien discusses each question separately. At the close of the tourth question the lospector cays:

The great error is in forming combinations to regulate wages under any circumstances.

Any one pilot named on that list might ask five hundred dollars per month for wases without material injury, but where skry-two pilots, or the half that number, ag we, contract, and piedes themselves to each other to make that demand, it is "a combination to extort exorbitant compensation for services," and they are held responsible for it.

5th. "If the charge be true, yet there was no wrong done, it was only a p oposed or threatened injury."

It was a threatened injury, and, therefore, measures should be taken to provent these threats from being carried into execution, either now or hereafter. The most effectual means by which this can be accomplished is by withdrawing the special privilege or favor by which some pilots can carry out their threats. It is alledged in this proposition that there has been no injury actually done to commerce, therefore there can be no one accountable for any injury.

This is not the proof. It is clearly shown that on the merce, therefore there can be no one accountable for any injury.

This is not the proof. It is clearly shown that on the publication of the 2sth August last, the value of steamboat properly was greatly affected; we have no exact statement of the amount of the real depreciation on that day, but it is evident it must have been very great, for there was no other prospect held out than that boats would have to pay for pilots $200 per month, for each pilot, more than had been paid for the best pilots in the trade. Now, it is shown by the books of the Local Inspectors that there has been, within the last year, 114 passenger boats inspected in this port. It is estimated that boats run eight soonths in the year, hence 114 boats each, eight months in the year makes $13 months, the extra cost of two pilots at $200 each is $400 for each boat, maxing the sum of $354,800 as an annual increased tax on the commerce of the city. With this in prospect, who can tell the real depreciation in steamboat property on that day.

The pilots who went into this combination can claim no credit for the relief that was afterwards afforded, that came from another source.

The weight and responsibility of their act yet rests upon credit for the relief that was alterwards afforded, that came from another source.

The weight and responsibility of their act yet rests upon them. The meeting of the 31st Angust of a few of their number, or the signing of the paper in the hand of the local board of the 4th of September, by ten of them afterwards, does not remove that responsibility, it leaves fifty-two persons still embodied to carry out out their purpose if they can; and there is nothing in the proceedings of the meeting of the 2ts of August, or in the paper presented to prevent the whole of the signers from rejoining in the same thing to proper the same thing of the 31st of August, or in the paper presented to prevent the whole of the signers from rejoining in the same thing to-morrow.

There is neither "indemnity for the past or eccurity for the future."

The object of these proceedings against Pilots is, to effectually to root out this combination, that it cannot again sprout up in a more or less objectionable shape.

If Pilots be not bound to take a fair equivalent for their services, there will be no reciprocity. Boats are bound to employ licensed Pilots; Pilots are secured by ilens on the boats for their wages; but where is the security to boats, if Pilots can extort what wages they please? Will the extortionate charge also a lien?

The great commercial interests of this city calls, in the name of justice, for scotection against this threatened imposition by Pilots. That call will not be made in vain. I know my responsibility, but will not shrink from duty. The Pilot iscuses of Thomas R. Lowry and P. B. Dixon have been, and the licenses of Wm. P. Gordon, George Vanhouten, and Henry H. Ely are hereby revoked; and they, the said Thomas R. Lowry P. B. Dixon, William P. Gordon, George Vanhouten, and Henry H. Ely are hereby revoked; and they, the said Thomas R. Lowry P. B. Dixon, William P. Gordon, George Vanhouten, and Henry H. WEDNESDAY EVENING, SEPT. 30, 1857.

RELIEF OF CAPTAIN HERNDON'S FAMILY .- The Washington Union publishes a letter from Mrs. Mayor Magruder, address I to her countrymen, proposing to them that meetings be held in every village, town, and city in the coentry, to raise funds to be invested for the us and benefit of the now destitute widow and daughter of the late Commander Herndon. The suggestion is worthy of the heart of generous, grateful, sympathizing woman. Mrs. ers' checks and 96 for produce bills. This will most Magrader, in her appeal, after referring to the loss of the Central America, says:

But, mid the gloom and horror of that dreadful night, there is one gloom of glorious light—one gal lant, neble, chivabons action that will stand out in bold relief and raise for its author a monument as enduring as time, indestructible as mind; its base resting is the hearts of women and its apex as elevated as her hopes. "Save the women and children" was the first order of the noble Herndon; and shall American women forget the gallant, the noble captain who, 'mid sterna, gloom, and desolation, forgetful of limself, could think of poor, frail woman and helpless children? Never! no, ne er!

She proposes that all contributions be forwarded to George W. Riggs, Esq., banker, of Washington.

PERCHASE OF A HUSBAND WITH STOLEN MONEY. The large package of money ($1,800) stolen from Mr. Libby, of the Bates Mill, in Lewiston, was taken by an old Irish woman who worked in the factory. The old hag took $500 of the funds to buy her a young husband, and the couple started on a tour. They went to Portland, where they failed to find a minister who would marry them. They then went to Lawell, where they met the same obstacle to the perfection of their bliss; and when last heard from they were on their way to Philadelphia. Measures have been taken to arrest them.

DEMAS THE YOUNGER .- The wit of young Dumas is quite the fareur in Paris. His last "good thing" is as follows: At a party, recently, the lady of the house insisted on his entertaining the company by teiling a story. "Madame," said he, "every one to his pro ession. The gentleman who preceded me as I came in is an officer of the artillery. When he has fired a cannon in your drawing-room I will then tell my story."

AN ESCAPE FROM SALT LAKE.—The following narrative is from the pen of John Davies, a young Welshman, who emigrated to Salt Lake with his family about two years ago, from Maeteg, South Wales. It is taken from a private letter, dated Council Bluffs Cay, Iowa, Jane 29th:

I guessyou are anxious to know the reason why I left Salt Lake. I shall try, in the first place, to inform you what a man must do to be a Mormon. He must give himself, his family, and all his possessions over to Brig ham Young, and then he'll have to give the tenth of his income—the tenth day's work—and he must keep from two to ten wives. If he don't arrae to those things he had batter quit four hey do. the next keep from two to ten wives. If he don't agree to these things he had better quit; but by do ing so he is in dauger of losing his life every minute, for they would rather kilf him than let nim be the means of letting the world know how things are in their undst. Many have been shot down in trying to ecape. I have seen dozens sho down on the street; and three days before I left I saw three persons killed merely because they intended to escape—they were shot down in a place called. Springfield, while they were preparing their tranks to leave. This took place about 8 o'clock on a Sauday morning, within fifty yards of the gates of the city. The lirst was a young man, called William Parish; he received seven balls in his body. The second was his father, and the third was a man cal'ed Potter, whose body received as many as titteen balls. The old man was pierced in the back, and his throat cut in three different places. I saw them lying down, and I could name the persons who killed them. Beigham Young has got men for this purpose. them. Brightam Young has got men for this purpose. Their number is four hundred. They are called the "Destroying Angels." Their captain's name is William Hickman, and the second in command is Porter Rockwell.

The walls around the city are 15 feet high, and they are suprovided by a deep and with many The

they are surrounded by a deep and wide moat. The city is entered by four gates, which are watched in the night time. The gutes are so narrow that only one vehicle can pass through at once. The "Destroying Angels" go out on the plains in the spring, in order to intercept those who may escape from the city. Many left on foot last January. They sleep by day and travel by night. I know of men and women who have traveled this way—the men dressed women who have traveled this way—the men dressed as women and the women as men. I came across some who were very short of food; the little they had they gave to the women, and the men were principally sustained by the women's milk!

I left Salt Lake City on the 17th of April, in company with two Welshmen and an Africau. The few Mormons who knew of our intentions said that we would never reach the States alive, but I told them that I was determined to try, whatever would them that I was determined to try, whatever would occur. On Saturday (the day after we left), we had traveled 30 miles from the city when we saw three men following us. They were sent by the authree men fellowing us. They were sent by the authorities of the city to catch us. The name of one was Patrick Linch, an Irishman by birth, and Secretary to Brigham Young. This man tired his revolver at me, but the ball went by without hurting me. They then came rear us on their horses and inquired our names, and, when we refused to tell them, they swcre that they would blow "our damned brains out." With that, one of them raised his revolver as if he was going to use it—be had one on brains out. With that, one of team the had one on each side of the saddle. I then took out my revolver and told him to fire if he liked.

I had six revolvers with me, and a rifle, containing in all thirty-seven balls. Another ball was then fired at me, which whistled by my left cheek. I then fired at him, and one ball hit bin on the leg then fired at him, and one ball hit him on the leg and another on the shoulder. (My friends by this time had run into the woods, and I was left to fight it out myself.) I then lost my footing, and one of the men run at me with a knife and cut my belt and took four of my revolvers. I had the other two hid in my beots. I got hold of one of them and fired, and succeeded in keeping them off for some time, till I had a chance to run to the woods, where I got the assistance of my friends.

We continued to travel that day and the following night, and succeeded in reaching a place called Fort Bridger, which is 113 miles from the Valley. The number of our pursuers had now increased to twennumber of our pursuers had now increased to tweuty, and we had to put to the woods again. We traveled till night, and were so fortunate as to meet a host of friendly Indians, who gave us buffalo meat host of friendly Indians, who gave us buffale ment to eat. The next day we overtook a number of wagons, known as Mrs. Babbit's train, in number 28. I was hired to drive one wagon, which was drawn by six mules. We had some trouble with a lot of Indians called the "Crow Tribe." They were all armed, and about a thousand strong. About six handled shots came into our tents. We killed alout thing Ledison and they killed fire of our most thirty Indians, and they killed five of our men.

It is added that one of the Lendon joint stock banks is a heavy sufferer. The facts of the case appear to be as follows: Mr. Thomas Dean, suicitor, of No. 7 King's Bench Walk, Temple, has absconded, and detective officers are in pursuit of him, as he is charged with frand and forgery.

We believe, however, that the total amount of his liabilities, so far as can be ascertained, does not exceed about £25,000; that the circle of sufferers scarcely exceeds half a dozen persons, chiefly his own relatives and immediate clients; and that the sum in which the bank referred to is interested is under £2000, and may be partially covered by other securities. Mr. Dean lived in a plain way, at Bames Common. His practice was never extensive, but he had been some 25 or 30 years in the profession. We understand that his name will appear in the list of bankrupts in to-morrow's Gazette.

The St. Louis Republican, in announcing the suspension of Darly & Berksdale and J. J. A lerson & Co., says:

& Co., says:

Messrs. Darby & Barksdale say they have a balf million of dolars, of their individual fortunes, to fall back apout to pay their depositors. We believe this—we believe its true to the letter, and if the business of the barking house is not sufficient to meet their liabilities, then they will scrupulously pay every cent that they owe. All that they want is a little time to arrange their affairs, necessarily somewhat acranged by the crient to pay so large an amount of deposits in so short a period. There should be no apprehension in regard to the solvency of this house, nor that they will come out of this disaster with their fortunes very little, if at all, lappaired.

The house of J. J. Anderson & Co. Is in a condition which will make the payment of every deposit, to the very last cent, as certain as anything can be. Is resources are abundant, its present embarrassment is owing, in a great measure, to a desire to protect the credit of our city and not to any Plugitimate speculations. We repent that not a dollar will be lost by any depositor or any other person having business connection with this house.

If there were minimal demands upon either of the other banking houses, they were promptly met.

Messrs. W. Hooper and W. W. Scarborough, who have been at New York to examine the affairs of the Ohio Trust Co., publish a card in the Cincinnati papers, in which they say:

pers, in which they say:

After a month's unremitting labor by day and night, we are unable to present a statement of its affairs with any approach to the truth, such is the inaccurrecy of the books and the totally unreliable condition of the accounts. It will require several weeks of patient investigation before a correct statement can be rendered.

The immediate cause of the failure of the bank, we find to be, large advances to a railroad company, the magnitude of which, it seems, is as much a surprise to the directors of the railroad as it is to the trustees of the bank. These advances have been made chiefly since April, when the trustees resident in New York made an examination of the office and a report upon it to the board here.

The New York Types has the fellowing in the

The New York Express has the following in relation to the Ohio Life and Trust Company:

The capital of the Company is $2,000,000, which was The capital of the Company is $2,000,000, which was invested in bonds and mortgages, and did not enter into the banking operations at all, contrary to the general impression. The banking operations were based upon an original issue of tweuty-year bonds, or certificates of dequeit, to the extent of $700,000, of which the investigation shows that $600,000 have been retired, leaving but $20,000, upon which its large operations have been based. Upon so small a sum it would not be supposed that a large business could be done, but the power of credit is very great, and the Company have used it to a degree rarely if ever surpassed.

ness could be done, but the power of credit is very great, and the Company have used it to a degree rarely if ever surpassed.

The investigation shows that the company in a transacted business upon borrowed capital—borrowing at a low rate to loca at a higher, and swelling its income by its large exchange business. It is shown that the West has always leaned heavily upon New York, and that the balance due the New York agency bas ranged from $60,000.000 to $1,500,000—touching the latter figure when the pork crop was ready. To emble the New York office to carry such a load it must have something upon which to raise the money, and that something was the paper made at the West and received through the home office, which could not be and was not ignorant of the manner in which the Ohio Life and Trust Company was managed. The explosion took place in New York, but its cause was not confined solely to the operations of the company in this city; and, had it been delayed. December would have found the Cincinnati office a debtor to New York of $1,200,000 at least. The disaster to the company has been produced by attempting to do a moustrous bursness on nothing. Its business in exchanges—$3,000,60 or $4,000,000 per month—shows that its organization was through here and at the West, or it could not have gone on so long. The luvestigations show equal responsibility on the part of the managers for the failure of the company.

The New York Tribune of Monday says in its money article under date of Saturday evening:

money article inder date of Saturday evening:

Money negotiations in the street are very nearly at a stand. In the discount honees the transactions are extremely limited, and the few sales of paper making are at very high rates, say 4 to 6 B cent. 9 month. Confidence has been so much disturbed that buyers of paper do not know what is safe, and hold off for a more extited state of things. The street has been quite excited, but it was not the excitement of panic—rather that of curiodity. Every one appears confident of the strength of our city banks, and, although there is doubtless some hoarding going on by the middle classes, there is not the slightest appearance of any disposition to withdraw deposits by the mercantile or financial classes.

At the close to day there were numerons rumors of fail-ince, some of them very important, and, under the present impossibility of making negotiations and almost entire annihilation of collateral values, most of the rumors are probably true. The most important sugrencious is that of Garner & Co., a very wealthy and respectable dry goods house, with large liabilities. The bills receivable due next month are said to reach a million and a balf, but money enough to

LETTERS FROM EUROPE.—The following extracts we make from the London and Paris letters in the New York Commercial:

The threatened break up of the Paris Credit Mobilier, reported by the last packet, has been for the moment aversed. After the recent judgment of the Tribunal of Commerce declaring M. Auguste Thurneyssen, one of its most prominent directors, to be liable for the frauds and detalections, amounting to $3.00,000, conmitted by his nephew, M. Charles Thurneyssen, who absconded in May last, and who, it was pretended, had fied to the United States, a panic seemed to seize many of the other directors, and about four or five of them expressed a wish to withdraw. M. Isaac Pereire, the president, refused to receive their resignations, but one of the number M. Ernest Archivesta. of the number, M. Ernest André, more posture than the rest, refused to be retained against his will, and employed a notary to amounce and legatize his secession. This step brought the matter to a crisis, since, although the Government could prevent the newspapers from giving publicity to what was going on, any further attempt at suppression was now rendered useless. The scandal rapidly increased, and impressions were current that the Credit Mobilier itself and on previous Management of the Credit Mobilier. itself, and not merely M. Auguste Thurnewsen individually, might possibly be implicated in the liabilities of the deliuquent. At this stage the necessity for Government interforence because evident. A sudden wind-up and a ferced realization and exposure of the securities held was to be avoided at all cost. The necessary influences seem consequently to have been at once put in motion. M. André has been induced to re enter the direction, and the other waverers have all been pacified and reassured. The concern will therefore go on, but happily its prestige is lost, and it will have little power of future mischief.

Another link of submarine telegraphic communication has just been laid. France is now united to her colony of Algeria. Hitherto a sea distance of 146 miles between Cagliari, in Sardinia, and the Algerine coast has remained to be completed. Notwithstanding the shortness of the distance, the depth at one part is equal to the greatest d-pth in the Atlantic plateau. The calle, however, was paid out rapidly and without accident, and little don't is entertained of its permanent safety. Newall & Co. of Birkenhead, Liverpool, were the manufacturers, and that held acceptance. Birkenhead, Liverpool, were the the risk of the ope-they had contracted to take all the risk of the operation. The length of line used was 172 miles, and its cost £50,000. Its construction was different in as cost 2000. Its constitution was different in some important respects from that of the Atlantic cable, and Newall & Co. consider that a considerable economy might have been effected in the latter.

Whether the Atlantic cable will be purchased for either of the projected Indian lines is still doubtful. The Red Sea Company, who would be willing to take it, are not likely to raise their capital, and, as the Covernment have allowed the most and as the Covernment have allowed the support of the covernment have allowed the covernment has a line of the covernment ha the Government have allowed them to the lst of October, no other parties can take any measures in the interval. As I have before said, all the French journals As I have before said, all the French journals, with but one exception, sympathise with the English in their misfortunes in the East. This exception is the Catholic legitimist paper, the Universe. That journal wishes England may be unsuccessful. It proclaims English rule in the East as lost forever. It wishes the English driven out, because they are It wishes the English driven out, because they are as great heretics, and much more dangerous ones, than the Hindoos. With their pernicious doctrines the people of that country will never be lumanized and enlightened. If you wish to change the face of the country you must send out Catholic missionaries. These are the opinions of the Universe. Each department in France, like each of our States, has its local legislative body. These legislative bodies, called the Conseils Generaux, have just terminated their sittings. Nearly all of them recommended to the government the pro ecution of the Suez canal; many of them recommended the es-tablishment of agricultural assurances; several recommended a maintenance of the system of protection to the manufactures of the country; and one, the General Conneil of the Department of the Nord, insisted, in a long document, upon the passage of a law regulating the hours of labor for women and girls in the manufactories, the same as exists in England. Twelve hours was mentioned as a proper day's work, and twelve years the earliest age at which girls should be admitted into the factories. The evils which result in French factories from ex cessive labor, and from the arrest of development in children placed too early in these establishments, have long been pointed out, and this recommenda-tion of the Conneil of the Nord will undoubtedly meet with a favorable response, The number of applicants for the St. Helena me-dal will be about 400,000! And when one reflects that these medals are only given to soldiers who fought for France between 1793 and 1815, some idea fought for France between 1793 and 1815, some idea of the number of men destroyed by war during the first Napoleon's dynasty may be formed. If at a half a century's distance 400,000 men are still living of the armies that ravaged Europe under his orders, how many must be dead? The fact revealed by these medals is a starting one.

APPREHENDED LOSS OF ANOTHER CALIFORNIA STEAMER.—The telegraph brings us a most painful report from New Otleans. The non-arrival of the steamer Star of the West at Havana, from Aspin-wall for New York, though three days over due, had caused apprehensions that the was lost. We have had no advices from Aspinwall since the ill-fated Central America left that port, and it may be that the Star of the West was crippled in her passage from New York to Aspinwall, and did probably not have on her regular day of sailing.

A man named Jordan was arrested in Lexington, on Sunday last, for the murder of Appleby, a grocer in Chicago, in June last. He was sent on to Chicago, and it is said is strongly implicated by cir-

Steamer Admiral Sunk .- The steamer Admiral, from St. Louis to the Council Bluffs, struck a snag in the Missouri river, about two and a half miles above Weston, on Monday last, and sunk in seven feet water. She went down in about fifteen minutes after the accident. The boat, it is feared, will be a total loss. The accident occurred at 5 P. M.

THE SOIREES MAGIQUE .- No one who has not witnessed the very extraordinary feats of magic performed by Madame Macallister can have the faintest conception of what necromancy is capable of effecting. These entertainments are not merely amnsing to children but full of the most wonderful interest to persons of every age. We speak entirely within the bonds of truth in prononucing Madame M. by far the most successful and expert necromancer that has ever appeared in this country, and we doubt if her equal has ever been found anywhere. She produces continually something new, elegant, scientific, and startling. The variety of her tricks is endless, and all are done so deftly that the closest and wisest observer is unable to detect the agency. She is a perfect witch, and completely bewitches and mistifies her audience. To say that these performances are astonishing would be to speak far too tamely of their wondrous attractions. We have no hesitation in recommending our citizens to visit the Mozart Hall this evening. If they are not gratified with the visit it will be impossible to afford them gratification.

Judge Peabody, of New York, has granted the application of Mrs. Cunningham to remove the case of the bogus baby from the Oyer and Terminer to the civil side of the Supreme Court.

We see from the St. Louis papers that Chief Kirkpatrick and Officer Bligh are in that city with the view of aiding the police in the "spotting" of suspicious characters, as well as to arrest one or two whose presence is needed here at the present time.

A CLERGYMAN'S MISTAKE—Almost a Cunningham Case.—Some weeks since, a man named Albert Pat-terson was arrested and taken before the police court, charged with bigamy. It was alleged that on the 2d of May last he was married by Father Mason, 2d of May last he was married by Father Mason, the City Missionary, to Elizabeth Atkins, he having at that time another wife rlive. He denied his guilt, saying that he knew uothing of the woman, and had never seen Father Mason. But his protestations went for naught when Father Mason came into court and swore positively to having perfermed the marriage coremony, as alleged, between the defendants, then passing under the name of Eli Merrill and Elizabeth Atkins. He was committed for trial before the municipal court, being unable to procure the bail demanded. The grand jury found a bill against him for higamy, Father Mason having again testified positively to his identity before them.

Last Saturday he was arraigned, and a day was assigued for trial. In the meantine an inquiry was instituted, and it soon became apparent that there

They said they were married by Father Mason on the 2d of May. Two or three witnesses were present, who say the marriage and identified those ent. who say the marriage and identified them. They said they were married by Father Mason on the 2d of May. Two or three witnesses were present, who saw the marriage, and identified them as the bridegroom and bride. Father Mason, also, upon seeing the real Eli Merrill, was salisted that he had been mistaken. The fac's were made known to the District Attorney, and he at once entered a nolle proseque, and Patterson was discharged after about two months' imprisonment in jail, for which he has no remedy. This case, though not a parallel to the two months' imprisonment in jail, for which he has no remedy. This ease, though not a parallel to the pretended marriage of Mrs. Cunningham with Dr. Burdell, affords strong priof that clergymen of undoubted character are liable to mistakes, when they attempt to identify parties married before them.

United States stocks, amounting to $400,000, were received to-day for redemption.

Monetary affairs continue quiet and there is no excitement, though there is considerable pressure upon the business community. The banking houses are all paying specie.

A letter received to-day from Fort Kearney, dated September 5, states that two companies of troops had arrived there that day on the way to Salt Lake, and that the Fifth and Tenth Regiments of Infantry had reached Fort Laramic.

Col. Hoffman had seized five hundred kegs of powder in a Moranoa train. Returning Californians informed the writer of the letter that the Moranoa were making preparations for fight, and dd not conceal their hostile movements. Elder Kimball in his sermon in the Tabernacle at Salt Lake said he could with his wives whip the 2,500 troops; he further remarked that provisions for the army would reach the valley, but the troops would never enter Salt Lake City.

Mr. Lucas, Teller of the Gore Bank, of Canada, has absconded. His defalcations amount to about $20,000. He had been in the habit of abstracting the funds of the bank, and had loaned them to 'shave' notes for other speculators, the proceeds of which were reinvested in real estate operations in Toronto, in Goodrich, and elsewhere. These defi ciencies were covered from week to week by drafts at short days, drawn on the very parties who were receiving the irregular accommodations at the hands of Lucas. These drafts were honored from time to time, and passed nurster, and it was not till default was made that the whole bubble burst.

A SLIGHT SPECIMEN. -The editor of the Const tu ienalist, published at Doniphan, K. T., thus intimates his remote intention of pitching into the editor of a Black Republican sheet:

The editor of the Chief wishes us to bring him into notice, but we do not wish to pollute our columns with such trash, unless forced to do so. We would readly him to the cross-eyed, crank-sided, peaked and long razor-nosed, blue-mouthed, niger-lipped, white eyed, soft-headed, long-carde, crane-neaked, blobser-lipped, squeaky-voiced, emply-headed, suggele-toothed, filthy-mouthed, box-arkled, pigeon-loed, real-footed, goggle-eyed, hammer-heart-d, cathanuned, hump-shouldered, bandy-shanked, splaw-footed, ignoble. Black Republican, Abolition editor to attend to his own affairs, or we will pitch into him in earnest.

The New York Journal of Commerce, of Saturday evening, expresses the following views on the

urday evening, expresses the following views on the present crisis:

The most interesting questions connected with the financial crisis is how far it will affect the movement of produce at the West. The business of furulshing currency for that purpose, which formed one source of profit for the New York and New England banks, is almost broken up by the distruct now prevailing. The season has now arrived when bank notes were freely given out for the purchase of Western produce, creating an easy market in all of the crain growing States, furnishing a ready means of exchange and giving life and animation to all of the channels of made. Now, if the banks attempt such an Issue, the bills are freegeneitly brought in unbroken bundles to Wallstreet, in vibilation of the agreement under which they have been distained, or, if taken to the West, they meel such a presence for money that they are picked up and returned before they can accomplish the object of starting the produce for market. In the desired course of things, the money should be first ledd out to the farmers, thus getting the crops in motion: then be paid by the farmers to the country storeskeepers or merchants, putting them in funds, and then be sent terrward to the city to pay up old bills, and enable the objects to next their obligations. For want of this medium of exchange, the crops are still in the barn or granary, exerts; far as they have furnished the means of a directremittance. If there is no prospect of a favorable change before the raiddle of October, when the jobbers will used the neath, something nuist be done to avert the trouble which would then overtake us. We suggest to the jobbers that their active interference may be productive of great good. Let every one furnish facilities for bringle gloward the crops from the neighborhood where Lis largest payments are due. If he cannot raise of a means, let him arrange for shipments on account. People, horses, and pigs will want something to cat, if all the banks in christendom are broken; and wheat, o

Foreign exchange is very much unsettled. Bills at 60 days on Loulon 104@165 for commercial signatures; 106@107 for bankers.

The Cincinnati Gazette, of yesterday, says: Eastern exchange is nominally 3 per cent, but it is searcer even than money, and it would be impossible to purchase any considerable amount at double the present nominal apotation. Those who have exchange are atraid to sell it, owing to the general distrust entertained with reference to

There is hut little bu-lness doing in any department of trade, the money panic engaging the altention of mer-chants, manufacturers, bankers, and traders generally.— Merchants are afraid to sell their goods; bankers are afraid to losn their money, and manufacturers are either suspend-lag operations or very much entailing their busines.
